

About ALPS Portfolio Solutions

ALPS specializes in satellite and alternative asset classes that are designed to help advisors and institutional investors build more diversified portfolios.

Our exposure to alternatives is achieved primarily through ETFs and open-end funds so that we can provide access that is registered, liquid¹ and fully transparent².

¹ETFs are considered to have continuous liquidity because they allow for an individual to trade throughout the day.
²ETFs are transparent because holdings are disclosed daily.

Shares of Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs) are not individually redeemable and owners of the shares may acquire those shares from the ETF and tender those shares for redemption to the ETF in Creation Units only, see the ETF prospectus for additional information regarding Creation Units. Investors may purchase or sell ETF shares throughout the day through any brokerage account, which will result in typical brokerage commissions.

There are risks associated with investing including possible loss of principal. Asset allocation does not assure a profit or protect against down markets. The stocks of smaller companies are subject to above-average market price fluctuations. There are specific risks associated with international investing, such as currency fluctuations, foreign taxation, differences in financial reporting practices and rapid changes in political and economic conditions. Real estate investments are subject to specific risks, such as risks related to general and local economic conditions and risks related to individual properties. Fixed income securities are subject to interest rate risk, prepayment risk and market risk. Commodity trading is highly speculative and involves a high degree of risk. Funds focusing on a single sector generally experience greater price volatility.
