Attribution

- 3D Printing was the leader among DTEC's 10 disruptive technology themes, gaining 16.10% in January after a big player in the space posted stellar earnings, boosting several other names. FinTech and Mobile Payments were the laggards, both dragged down by roughly 8% on weaker Q4 earnings and lower holiday travel transactions due to the pandemic.
- The 3D Printing theme surged to start the year, with Stratasys Ltd. (SSYS; 2.08% weight) and Proto Labs Inc. (PRLB; 1.34% weight) leading the charge. Both names gained sharply after 3D Systems (DDD; not in DTEC) posted stellar earnings, boosting the entire space in the process. Proto Labs also completed the acquisition of 3D Hubs, a global network that connects customers to 240 manufacturing partners.
- Robotics & Artificial Intelligence, DTEC's second best performing theme, was led by robotics name iRobot Corp (IRBT; 1.46% weight). The maker of the Roomba vacuum gained this month as part of the retail trading frenzy.

Important Disclosures & Definitions

An investor should consider the investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses carefully before investing. To obtain a prospectus which contain this and other information call 866.759.5679 or visit www.alpsfunds.com. Read the prospectus carefully before investing.

ALPS Disruptive Technologies ETF Shares are not individually redeemable. Investors buy and sell shares of the ALPS Disruptive Technologies ETF on a secondary market. Only market makers or "authorized participants" may trade directly with the Fund, typically in blocks of 50,000 shares.

There are risks involved with investing in ETFs including the loss of money. Additional information regarding the risks of this investment is available in the prospectus.

An investment in the Fund is subject to investment risk including the possible loss of the entire principal amount that you invest.

Diversification does not eliminate the risk of experiencing investment losses.

Companies that the Index Provider believes are developing disruptive technologies may not in fact do so or may not be able to capitalize on those technologies. Companies that develop disruptive technologies may face political, legal or regulatory challenges. Such companies may also be exposed to risks applicable to industries or sectors other than the disruptive technology Theme for which they are chosen and may underperform relative to other companies that are also focused on a particular Theme. Smaller and mid-size companies often have narrower markets, more limited managerial and financial resources and a less diversified product offering than larger, more established companies. As a result, their performance can be more volatile, which may increase the volatility of the Fund's portfolio. The large capitalization companies in which the Fund invests may underperform other segments of the equity market or the equity market as a whole.

The Fund's investments in non-U.S. issuers may involve unique risks compared to investing in securities of U.S. issuers, including, among others, less liquidity generally, greater market volatility than U.S. securities and less complete financial information than for U.S. issuers. In addition, adverse political, economic or social developments could undermine the value of the Fund's investments or prevent the Fund from realizing the full value of its investments. Finally, the value of the currency of the country in which the Fund has invested could decline relative to the value of the U.S. dollar, which may affect the value of the investment to U.S. investors.

One cannot invest directly in an index.

There is no assurance that the market developments and sector growth discussed in this Insight will come to pass.

Price/Earnings Ratio - A valuation ratio of a company's current share price compared to its per-share earnings.

Price/Book Ratio - The weighted average of the price/book ratios of all the stocks in a portfolio. The P/B ratio of a company is calculated by dividing the market price of its stock by the company's per-share book value.

Price/Cash Flow Ratio - This represents the weighted average of the price/cash-flow ratios of the stocks in a portfolio. Price/cash-flow represents the amount an investor is willing to pay for a dollar generated from a particular company's operations.

Price/Sales Ratio - This represents the weighted average of the price/sales ratios of the stocks in a portfolio. Price/sales represent the amount an investor is willing to pay for a dollar generated from a particular company's operations.

Index Disruptive Technologies Index is based around companies that enter traditional markets with new digital forms of production and distribution, are likely to disrupt an existing market and value network, displace established market leading firms, products and alliances and increasingly gain market share.

The Morningstar® Global Markets Index consists of liquid equities that provide investors with accurate benchmarks for performance measurement, as well as offering discrete building blocks for portfolio construction. These indexes provide an accurate, comprehensive depiction of the performance and fundamental characteristics of global equity markets through a comprehensive portfolio of accessible and liquid stocks.

The Fund employs a "passive management"- or indexing - investment approach and seeks to track the investment results of an index composed of global companies that enter traditional markets with new digital forms of production and distribution, and are likely to disrupt an existing market or value network. Unlike many investment companies, the Fund is not "actively" managed. Therefore, it would not necessarily sell a security because the security's issuer was in financial trouble unless that security is removed from the Index Disruptive Technologies Index. Similarly, the Fund does not buy a security because the security is deemed attractive unless that security is added to the Index Disruptive Technologies Index.
